

CamDirector® IP Video Switcher

Effortless Multi-Camera Control

The Avonic CD600 transforms into a powerful video control hub with the CamDirector® IP Video Switcher license. It combines reliable hardware and intelligent software to make switching between multiple PTZ cameras simple and professional. Designed for live and hybrid productions, it delivers smooth low latency performance without extra hardware or complex setup.

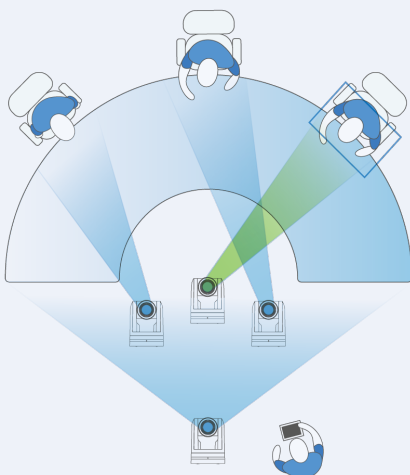

IP Video Switcher

Through one clear and intuitive interface you can connect between two and six cameras over IP, create visual presets, and activate tracking modes. Switching is handled entirely within the CD600, so no external hardware switcher is needed. Every transition looks natural and professional, keeping your production fluid and consistent.

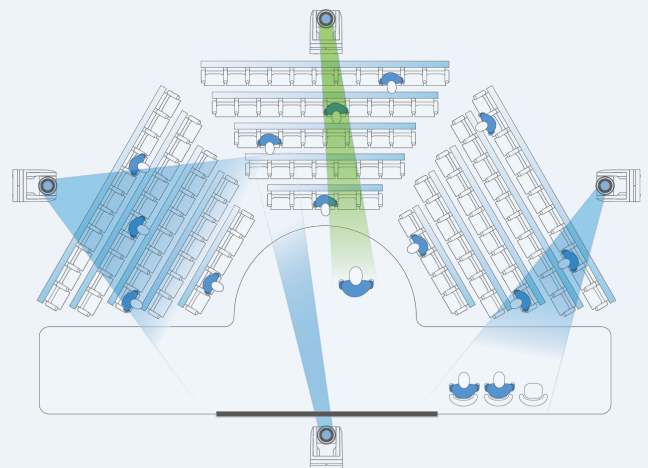

Features

- Intuitive interface for easy operation

Low-latency switching for smooth transitions

The CamDirector® IP Video Switcher delivers instant camera changes with minimal delay. Every transition looks natural, keeping live and hybrid productions smooth and professional.

Fast, reliable control over IP

All switching runs directly inside the CD600, so no extra equipment is needed. This makes installation quick, reduces failure points, and ensures dependable long-term performance.

Open API integration

The open API enables control and automation from third-party systems, making it easy to integrate the CamDirector® IP Video Switcher into larger AV setups or custom workflows.

Fast Setup

Configuration takes only minutes. Once installed, the system is ready for daily operation and does not require repeated setup.

Privacy proof

No video data is stored, all data stays within the room.
